

BACK TO SCHOOL LISTS SAVE MONEY!

Spending now will save money later! The deals are in the stores now and by taking your time using a list you will get everything you want at a deep discount!

The following lists are the basic essentials you will want for your child to start school, you do not need anymore then this to start off the school year and then pick up the odds and ends later if needed.

Many items on the list can be reused, I have colored pencils, markers, highlighters and pencils coming out of my ears. Go shopping at home first and reuse anything that you already have and pack it away in a closet. Then keep this list in your car, wallet or purse.

Print the list and give it to your three best friends and buy in bulk. Costco sells paper and pencils in bulk to last a life time.

When out and about, check the sales in the school supply area. Target, Staples and Office Depot are offering different items weekly. Many of the items on the list can be reused every year if taken care of..now is the time to teach our children, we use items until they have no use anymore.

Start off the year with gently used items from the year before. My kids love the mechanical pencils, we reuse these and just buy the refillable lead and erasers. This also cuts out the pencil sharpener and gives more room in the pencil case. Their case consist of two mechanical pencils, lead, a red, blue and black pen and eraser. Reuse the markers at home if they are still working perfectly! This will teach children about conserving, recycling and rethinking how we use items.

Book covers can be expensive, so visit your local market and brown bag your groceries and create your own covers! Kids love to doodle, let them decorate their covers as they wish.
